Register Your Signage At www.whoiswatchingme.org

The Who Is Watching Me signage provides an off-the-shelf solution for CCTV scheme operators. The unique serial numbered signage and website registration process allows CCTV system operators to supply their contact details to members of the general public without the need for expensive personalised signage. The scheme operators can amend their contact personnel details when staff leave the company, update contact telephone numbers or e-mail addresses at no extra cost to themselves. Members of the general public can enter the unique serial code on the sign on www.whoiswatchingme.org to find out the scheme operators details. This avoids having to have individual signs made for each client meaning a lower cost for you!

Just go to www.whoiswatchingme.org or scan the QR code

What Size Sign To Use

The size of the signage is really dependant on how the person approached the area that is being recorded. For example, an A4 Sign is suggested for positioning at 'head height' so that passing individuals can be made aware of a scheme. Where it is likely that passing drivers need to be kept informed of the operation of a scheme an A3 sign is suggested.
